Do you live
in Devon?

What changes
should there be to local government in your county?

We have been asked by the Government to advise it on the possible creation of one or more new unitary authorities in the county.

A unitary authority is a single council which is responsible for providing all services in an area, such as education, social services and emptying the bins.

This would replace both the county council and the district councils in the area.

We will publish our draft proposals for new unitary authorities in Devon in the summer and ask for your views on them before providing our final advice to the Government.

You will be able to find the draft proposals on our website, at your local council offices, and at local libraries.
