

Guidance for candidates and agents: The 2010 UK Parliamentary general elections in Great Britain

Erratum

Inspecting election materials after the election - Scotland.

Due to a change in legislation introduced in March 2010 there is an alteration to the place where election documents will be kept for constituencies in Scotland. The documents will now be kept by the Returning Officer for the Constituency. Therefore all references in our guidance relating to the holding, inspection and purchase of documents after the election should now be read as the Returning Officer rather than the Sheriff Clerk.

This alteration is due to legislative change in the Representation of the People (Scotland) (Amendment) Regulations 2010.
