You need to register to vote to take part in elections and referendums.

Register to vote means:
- Completing this form
- If your application is successful your name goes on the list of people who are able to vote in elections

You can apply to register to vote either:
- Online at: www.gov.uk/register-to-vote
Or by completing this form and sending it to your Electoral Registration Office

You can find the address at: www.electoralcommission.org.uk/voter
Who can register to vote?

You can register to vote if you are:

- Living in the UK
- Aged 16 or over

You will not be able to vote until you are 18.

You must also be either:

- A British, Irish or European Union citizen or
- A Commonwealth citizen who has permission to live in the UK

The Commonwealth is a group of countries that mostly used to be part of the British Empire.

Postal vote, or proxy

Most people vote at a polling station on polling day.

Do not fill in the boxes on this page if you want to vote at the polling station.

You can choose to vote by post or by proxy.

Please tick if you would like one of these options. We will send you the forms you need to complete.

Or you can get the form online at www.electoralcommission.org.uk/voter

☐ By post

☐ By proxy

Proxy means allowing someone you trust to vote on your behalf.
The Open Register

Registration officers keep 2 registers:
- The Electoral Register
- The Open Register

The Electoral Register
This has all the names and addresses of everyone who is registered to vote in elections.

It is used to make sure people are allowed to vote.

It can also be used to:
- Help the police detect a crime
- Call people to be on a jury

A jury is a group of people who decide if someone is guilty in some court cases.
Check the names and addresses of people who want to borrow money

The Open Register
The Open Register is not used for elections. It can be bought by any person, company or organisation.

Your name will be on The Open Register unless you ask for it to be removed.

Your right to vote is not affected if you ask for your name to be removed.

Please tick if you do not want your name and address to be on The Open Register.

Worried about your safety?
If you are worried having your name and address on the register will affect your safety, or the safety of someone you live with, contact your electoral registration office.

Privacy statement

If you choose to be on The Open Register your information can be bought by anyone.

They might use it to contact you to tell you about something or try and sell you something.

If you chose not to have your name and address on The Open Register, we will only use your information when we are running elections and referendums.

We will look after your information and keep it safe.

We will not give any information about you to anyone unless the law says we must.
We use your information in a way that is set out in a law called Representation of the People Act 1983 and other regulations.

The law says that the Data Controller must have a policy document that explains how this information will be used.

The Electoral Registration Officer is the Data Controller.

For further information about how your personal data may be used, you should go to their privacy notice on their website.
