Commission

Issue 362 (England) – 12 July 2023

Polling district and polling place review guidance

The next compulsory polling district and polling place review period will commence on 1 October 2023, with all local authorities being required to review their UK Parliamentary constituency polling districts before 31 January 2025.

This review will also take place alongside the introduction of revised UK Parliamentary constituency boundaries, which have now been published by the Boundary Commissions for England, Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland, and which are expected to come into force at the next UK Parliamentary general election.

To support you with preparing for and delivering the review, we have republished our longstanding polling district and polling place review guidance in web-based HTML format. The guidance has also been updated, in consultation with the Elections, Registration and Referendums Working Group, to include specific considerations for the 2023-2025 compulsory review period.

Guidance update

Elections Act 2022 – updates to guidance to reflect forthcoming changes

As set out in Bulletin 360, we are in the process of updating our core guidance to support you with the delivery of the next phase of changes arising out of the Elections Act 2022.

We have already published our second key planning considerations guidance resource, to support you in your preparations to deliver these measures, and we can now update you on our approach to providing the core guidance. We are again taking a phased approach to this, to reflect the order in which the legislation is scheduled to come into effect and when you will need to take steps to implement it.

Our initial focus is on the core guidance for EROs to support the changes to absent voting, including the introduction of online applications. We aim to publish this guidance in early September

We then expect to publish updates to the core ERO guidance to support the changes to overseas electors' voting rights in November 2023, ahead of the legislation coming into force in January 2024.

We will also be producing new guidance for EROs to support the delivery of the Registration Confirmation and Review (RCR) process for EU citizens, as a result of the changes to EU citizens' voting rights. We expect to publish the guidance by the end of this year, in advance of the process commencing post-May 2024.

The updates to guidance required as a result of the other measures, such as postal vote handling and secrecy, changes to the commonly used name requirements and changes to EU citizens' candidacy rights, will be included in updates to core RO guidance in preparation for the May polls.

Guidance for May 2024 polls

We are also now working on updating our core guidance for ROs for the local government elections, Police and Crime Commissioner elections and Greater London Authority (GLA) elections scheduled for May 2024.

As part of our rolling programme of moving our core guidance to web-based HTML format, the updated guidance to support the GLA elections will be published as web-based content for the first time.

The full suite of core guidance for all scheduled May 2024 polls will be published in November 2023, with supporting resources following on a rolling basis.

We are reviewing the feedback we received after the May 2023 polls on the Voter Identification Evaluation Form (VIDEF) and will publish an updated version with the resources for the May 2024 polls.

Finally, we will be publishing updated Polling Station Handbooks in February 2024, in line with our usual timeframes, and will be delivering hard copies to you in advance of the polls, following our usual ordering process which will be completed early in the new year.

If you have any queries on any of this, or need any further support, please contact your local Commission team.
