The resources include:

Eligibility Confirmation Review – additional guidance on eligibility

With the Eligibility Confirmation Review (ECR) process underway we have received numerous queries regarding the eligibility of individuals that received their EU settled status (EUSS) after the Implementation Period Completion Date (IPCD) of 31 December 2020.

We have clarified the position of these individuals with colleagues at the Ministry of Housing, Communities and Local Government and will be updating our core guidance to reflect the following information ASAP.

Providing that EUSS has been granted to the individual in their own right (and not on the grounds of being a joining family member), a grant of EU settled status is sufficient to confirm a person meets the residency requirements, no matter when the EUSS was granted. This is because having 'personal' EUSS can be taken as evidence that an individual has been resident in the UK continuously since at least IPCD, regardless of when it was granted. Obtaining EUSS requires the individual to have been legally resident before the IPCD. This includes any individual who has a personal “settled” or “pre-settled” status – either of which can be taken as evidence they meet the new eligibility criteria.

This also means that if an individual has EUSS as ‘a joining family member’ it can be assumed that they have not been resident continuously since at least IPCD and as such would not meet the required eligibility criteria of an EU citizen with retained rights. If they had their own continuous legal immigration status since the IPCD they would have been granted their own EUSS, and not that of a joining family member. You can ask any such individuals to confirm if they gained settled/pre-settled status on the grounds of being a “joining family member” or not. If they did, they would not be eligible under the new eligibility criteria.

If you are not sure if an individual meets the new eligibility criteria for another reason, for example if the elector has informed you that they were out of the country for a period of time or arrived after the IPCD, then you have the power to request further information in order to make a determination. You can find our guidance on your power to request further information to establish eligibility here.

We will provide a further update in a future bulletin once the guidance has been updated.

In the meantime, if you have any questions or require any assistance, please do contact your Wales Electoral Commission team.
