Issue 212 (Wales) – 18 April 2018

Electoral Commission response to the National Assembly for Wales consultation on electoral reform

In February the Assembly Commission launched its consultation 'Creating a Parliament for Wales' which asked for views on how the electoral, operational and internal arrangements of the National Assembly for Wales could be changed.

We have been working with the Assembly Commission as it has been developing its thinking on reforms to the Assembly's electoral and operational arrangements, and have indicated our willingness to contribute fully to the modernisation and reform agenda in Wales.

Our focus is to ensure that any changes made to modify and reform electoral arrangements are adequately resourced to ensure that they can be implemented in the best interest of voters.

Our full response to the consultation can be found here.
